

nice analysis - I didn't do such an analysis but had kind of this projection in my head, only that I am not quite buying into "the dividend for life" scenario, yet

As to why are people not investing more into this, I have come across the following:

- not aware of Numerai
- not confident about the ML aspect of this
- people get into this while NMR was 30+ USD, and find it demotivating after 75%+ drawdown
- quite a lot of people into altcoin are not in it for the long run - i.e. mainly for short term trading and speculation
- Crypto/Defi or just numerai itself sounds to risky even for good ML people - I find at least in my network large portion of DS/ML people are risk averse, like why do I risk it given I am already with a well-paid job?
- alternative games for probability based profit, such as stock/fx trading or sport betting IMO, price at below $10 would be great entry point into this - but I think most people don't want to "catch a falling knife"?