

I propose a 2% UNI burn when a proposal is being submitted. This will prevent big groups from being able to brute force their will onto the UNI community. Furthermore, I also propose that the UNI that is used to create a governance proposal be locked until the voting is done. This would also apply to people who cast their votes as well. I added another poll so that we can decide as a community on what a fair % of uni to be burned on submission of a proposal would be.

EDIT: if this garners enough attention and votes from the community, I will need help going through the necessary channels in order to make this a real proposal that we can vote on. Thank you to all and together we can make UNI "function" in a beneficial way for the community.

UNI Burn/ Lock Up

- Yes, a proposal spam deterrence would be great.
- No, keep the current system.

0

voters

% burned on proposal

- 2% burn
- 3% burn
- 5% burn
- 10% burn

0

voters