

Assuming your referring to tournament, you don't need to load your data every time though api. You can just store your data locally and use them for any kind of test and comparison.