

Simple Summary

With the Shanghai upgrade coming, Gauntlet would like to kickstart the discussion around the potential actions the Aave community can take. At a high level, the Shanghai upgrade would enable staked Ether withdrawals and thus can have risk (and growth) implications for Aave markets. We are taking steps to proactively conduct analysis but wanted to welcome community feedback in the meantime. We also would welcome thoughts from the protocol's contributors, including the technical contributors, as Gauntlet's analysis will focus on the market risk rather than the smart contract risks.

Due to the potential complexity of the topic, we hope that the community will find this thread helpful in the coming weeks for efficiently organizing discussion.

Next Steps

Welcome thoughts from the community.