

Draft Proposal

Allocate some LDO tokens to a token economics professional to make LDO token economics better.

Justification

The token economics need an upgrade. Currently the LDO token has very significant sell pressure b/c of constant emissions - these emissions do not seem to be ending any time soon. There is no reason to hold it other than voting in the DAO, which is very likely controlled by the team.

There needs to be a reason to hold LDO and not just dump it immediately upon receiving it as a reward. As per the reWards committee, these LDO emissions will continue to go on ...

and on the merge / cex listing / mkt maker - maybe the price will pump, but if the rewards continue without a reason to hodl LDO (beyond 'voting'), the mkt maker will likely have to absorb a lot of sell pressure. its better if there is significantly less sell pressure price of token is important, it helps build community. currently the general DAO narrative is something like

'we bought at a much lower price (e.g. team .01 usd) so we dont care and we just want to 'decentralize' the project as much as possible' - decentralization is great and important, but there MUST be a reason to hold LDO token and not dump it if these rewards will continue ...