

[

brave_screenshot_bridge.hekla.taiko.xyz

558×705 80.2 KB

](https://global.discourse-cdn.com/standard17/uploads/taiko/original/1X/ba7c6c09eac9f02af6d8ab5145221ccb40f0a9b7.png)

I think this continue button should be renamed preview because it looks logical, and besides, the tab you find yourself on when you click this button is called preview

I left this request in Github and I'm sure that you rejected it in vain and decided to leave two continue buttons because, in my opinion, there are too many continue buttons, it doesn't look very good and is not at all aesthetically pleasing but if this bridge page is important only for test networks and on the mainnet it stops functioning and you replace it with another, then this request does not matter, but if this page remains on the mainnet, then I am quite justifiably indignant at the fact that you refused to accept this is a request on github