Optimism alignment:

Dragonia is one of, if not the first, original game on Optimism. Through fun and engaging gameplay, users are able to enjoy matches and directly mint rewards from the blockchain without large gas fees by playing.

Dragonia cosmetic rewards and Trainer NFTs are purchasable and verified collections on Quixotic.

The user interface (shown above) when playing a game of Defend Dragonia (card game), which consists of three different elements through a rock-paper-scissors-style mechanic.

Dragonia Trainer holders also receive a portion of fees from secondary sales. We are currently working on a story-driven visual novel, more airdrops and additional gamemodes to Defend Dragonia.

Proposal for token distribution:

How will the OP tokens be distributed?

- 80% - Player rewards and incentives; players that earn XP through winning games can gradually unlock rewards in the current season pass. Token distribution will gradually be added to these reward pools to incentivize playing.
- 20% - Marketing and community growth to drive more attention/traction, as well as expenses (such as server hosting costs).

How will this distribution incentivize usage and liquidity on Optimism?

GOAL: Showcase P2E gaming and the benefits of building on Optimism

The token distribution will be used to grow the player base and incentivize playing matches. To help sustain this project's development and incentivize user interaction/engagement, this funding proposal would help us to continue expanding the Dragonia ecosystem (more games, more action!) and community.

Why will the incentivized users and liquidity remain after incentives dry up?

Dragonia has many different rewards such as NFTs, cosmetic skins and other planned partnerships (e.g. WL spots for other projects that can be earned through playing).

Over what period of time will the tokens be distributed?

There is no set period for token distribution as of right now. Considering that there are approximately 3-4 seasons yearly (each with unique lore and updates), token distribution allocated for rewards should last multiple seasons but ultimately depends on the number of players.

How much will your project match in co-incentives?

Dragonia does not have a token. However, players can earn NFTs via our season rewards (earned through winning matches) and other airdrops. We will also create some special in-game art + NFTs for this event.
