

Ethereum grants {#ethereum-grants}

The programs listed below offer a variety of funding grants for projects working to promote the success and growth of the Ethereum ecosystem. Use this as a guide to find and apply for funds to help make your next Ethereum project a success.

This list is curated by our community. If there's something missing or incorrect, please edit this page!

Broad Ethereum ecosystem {#broad-ethereum-ecosystem}

These programs support the broad Ethereum ecosystem by offering grants to a wide scope of projects. These include solutions for scalability, community building, security, privacy, and more. These grants are not specific to any one Ethereum platform and are a good place to start if you're unsure.

- EF Ecosystem Support Program - Funding open source projects that benefit Ethereum, with a particular focus on universal tools, infrastructure, research and public goods
- MetaCartel - Dapp development, DAO creation
- Moloch DAO - Privacy, layer 2 scaling, client security, and more
- DAO Grants - Google spreadsheet of organizations offering grants
- Crunchbase for Web3 Grants - Filter and search for grants by category, use case, amount, and more. Contribute to help others find the right grant.
- Academic Grants - Grants to support Ethereum-related academic work
- Blockworks Grantfarm - Blockworks has compiled a comprehensive directory of all grants, RFPs, and bug bounties.

Project specific {#project-specific}

These projects have created their own grants for projects aimed at developing and experimenting with their own technology.

- Web3 Grants - An extensive list of web3/crypto related grant programs

Quadratic funding {#quadratic-funding}

The open source roots of Ethereum have led to the growth of an interesting new fundraising model: quadratic funding. This has the potential to improve the way we fund all types of public goods in the future. Quadratic funding makes sure that the projects that receive the most funding are those with the most unique demand. In other words, projects that stand to improve the lives of the most people.
