Facts - Blizzard, they control APR, min LP for each pool, and how they show the value of each SNO.

You look here, trading for SNO is no happening. This means SNO price is very high because market no decide price. Secret Surge rewards are given based on SNO token price. It appear Blizzard developers are doing farming of surge benefits only for themself while confuse LPs with high APY connected to token not allowed to trade. This is bad look for the Secret Network.

When investigation happening for this? This activity very doubtful and suspicious, make trust in rewards campaign go away.
