

A question about public and private functions, and how they relate to private and public state. Can private functions read/write public state (maybe read only historical public state, or update state only via CRDT-like operations)? And can public functions push notes into private state, or read them if the owner “reveals” them somehow?