

I am usually not one to complain over a liquidation and I've had a great experience with the platform. However, If possible. Could I have a dev look into this? I attempted to close out the position at 44,774 with minimal fluctuation and well before the pump. After metamask confirmation It sat there for a full 2 minutes closing and then the site crashed. 1 minute later the site came back up and said it couldn't go through at 44,802 . I'm upset to say the least. Posted in Discord support as well for visibility. I understand the risks, but I got rugged here.
