

Congrats to the Uniswap team on a thrilling launch!

It's my strong belief that in order for this forum to be effective, community-elected moderators should be put in place to help keep order over a growing conversation.

I would argue that strong moderation of the yearn governance forum is what allowed key discussions to shine through and one which should be closely followed here.

For those who feel like they would be a good fit, please comment below to help make the team's life a bit easier outside of the internal discussion already being had.

Please note, moderation roles are not likely to be paid at inception, but ones which may offer future benefits if and as the community sees fit.

Cheers!
