

Can someone explain why fixing gas prices , and by that I mean somehow hard-coding a certain value or range to be accepted as valid, a bad idea? I see a chain called Avalanche does this. But I just get a sense that this solution causes more issues than it solves. If not why doesn't ethereum do this?