

The training and validation data doesn't change week-to-week. (Once in a while new validation data is added – you'll see an announcement in rocketchat when that happens.) So there is no reason to re-train all the time. The only new data each week is the "eraX, live" data which we are actually scored on for the round.