

Is ensembling a good idea by default? I can imagine situations in which one of the three models outperforms the ensembled model. Maybe you could compare metrics before deciding on using a single or ensembled model for submitting predictions?