

stETH is currently covered for upto 5% slashing events. Is there a possibility of covering a broader range of events under insurance? For instance, if it were possible to somehow mint stETH out of thin air or the withdrawal key gets hacked or any other catastrophic event, can there be either centralized or decentralized insurance options to pay out stETH holders?

With over $1B locked and counting, it might be worth exploring these areas.