

Hello Secret Community,

I am here trying to get community feedback on what delegators (bag holder) are looking for in Validators.

I have set up my Validator on the network since the documentation for it was up for setting up.

Although I was only ever been able to put a big enough stake after the swap I have been learning to maintain and keep up with the network updates and upgrades.

I had initially considered to just delegate to some of the bigger Validators, but SCRT network in my opinion needs more validators at this point as the top-5 take-up and own the network at this point, which is not a good idea for decentralized projects (Provided the SWAP just started). Hence i have help on to my own validator and would like to keep so.

Currently, I am using a VPS solution from Vultr, and I find it extremely comfortable and reliable. Also, they have options to scale if needed by the validator.

The cost of validator/node goes for me (for now), but I am looking at the secret-contract upgrade in September that may require me to increase my network capacity and incur more cost. Unless people are willing to delegate on my validator. Hence i would like to here community feedback on what would attract delegators to my validator.
