

Hello,

I am the moderator (and founder, and currently the only member) of the KISS AVC.

The KISS AVC was among the first AVCs to be established back in late March.

(Maybe even the very first to submit the official “AVC Creation” signed request

).

We have recently completed the first quarterly cycle and produced our first “KISS AVC Position” document.Link here.

We have also posted a “Quarterly Review” (like here) with some comments/observations on the Q1 experience.

One of the main points made in the above Quarterly Review, is the need to find additional KISS AVC members and especially large MKR holders. This post is a first attempt towards this goal.

Announcement:

The KISS AVC is looking for new AVC members to join. While – of course – any interested MKR holder is very welcome, we are looking for potential new AVC members having the following characteristics:

1. Large MKR holders (i.e., >1k MKR).

Large/Wealthy MKR holders are needed for a number of reasons:

a)

Eventually (sooner rather than later) the KISS AVC moderator (now it's me) will have to be supported (financially) directly by people interested in the KISS AVC (thus, mostly by other AVC members).

So far (i.e., in Q1) the moderator (again, currently it's me) has been supported by the “AVC members compensation” schemes provided by MakerDAO. As these rewards go to the “10 richest” (in MKR-terms) AVC-members, across all AVCs, eventually the KISS moderator will not be compensated at all.

If the Moderator's work is considered as valuable (to whatever extent) by AVC members, I think it is reasonable that the AVC's members support its work directly, without relying on MakerDAO budgets.

b)

Large MKR holders have large stake in the game. And so perhaps they have their own incentives to follow MakerDAO somewhat closely (See point 2 below).

c)

Potentially large MKR holders also have other connections/investments/resources, and so can bring interesting new ideas/life to the KISS AVC.

1. People interested in following MakerDAO somewhat closely.

This does not mean following MakerDAO everyday, becoming a “forum addict”, etc. But it definitely means that a consistent and long-term interest in MakerDAO motivates the AVC member to follow most of the KISS AVC meetings (~ 1h long, once a week).

a)

There is no need to “research” or other time-consuming activities to follow the KISS AVC meetings. You can just lurk there and, only occasionally, say something if you want. The only KISS AVC member who actually needs to talk (to interact with the Aligned Delegates) is the KISS AVC moderator.

b)

However it is expected that you somewhat join the community of other KISS AVC members, like following the chat, or following this forum, etc. So not time consuming, but some active interest is needed.

1. Last, but definitely not least, agree on the KISS principles: simplicity (but not a “simplistic” approach) as a guideline for structuring efficient and sustainable workflows, priorities, processes, guidelines, etc.

If you decide to join the KISS AVC during Q2:

1. I will keep being the KISS AVC Moderator for this quarter. This is subject to change in Q3, potentially.
2. Just join us in the forum and in the chat and let us know you are looking to join

You can either use our Discord bridged-channel or (better), join directly our Matrix channel following these instructions:

Instructions to join Element/Matrix

1. Of course I am also happy to answer questions here in the Forum.

As getting new AVC member swill incur in a significant increase in complexity (we will move from a 1-member AVC to a N-members AVC, and we will have to invest more resources in finding a proper way to vote internally, etc), we will naturally be a bit careful on who is allowed to join.