

When Dharma asked to be included in the airdrop it sounded fair specially that dharma users are usually new-comers to crypto so it is great to give them a very positive experience of uniswap. I also love the team and think they are doing an amazing job to onboard new-comers. But this proposal open the Pandora box and now everyone is asking for free money.

Services like 1inch are also asking to be included. I am fully against. Beside the fact that 1inch used to have a very aggressive stance toward uniswap due to the launch of a competitor AMM, 1inch users are either advanced defi users or bots. So I dont see any reasons to airdrop them 20k*400 UNI. Giving them UNI will bring 0 benefit to the Uniswap project, would just make the price dump and destroy confidence.

Saying a loud no to ANY retroactive will allows the uniswap community to focus on the future with a clearer mind.

And sorry for my rant but I had to say it.