

Hello, Aave community!

Around 2.5 years ago I have unfortunately sent some big amount of Lend tokens to the Lend contract address. It was my fault of course and I absolutely accept that, but the thought of maybe one day returning the tokens stayed.

I understand that there was nothing Aave team could have done since the Lend contract didn't have the technical possibility to send the tokens back (the bounce function I believe), but right now, while the migration is in the process maybe the team could think of a way to reimburse the tokens back to the owners accounts in a form of Aave, as if they were swapped.

Since the tokens are lost in the contract forever but are still the part of the circulation supply there would be no harm in returning them back in accordance to the Lend > Aave swap rules. The contract itself holds around 839 863 lend.

So if the tech team could consider something - it would be wonderful and much appreciated!

Thanks in advance and best regards!