

Price Feeds

Chainlink Data Feeds provide data that is aggregated from many data sources by a decentralized set of independent node operators. The Decentralized Data Model describes this in detail. However, there are some exceptions where data for a feed can come only from a single data source or where data values are calculated. Read the Selecting Quality Data Feeds to learn about the different data feed categories and how to identify them.