

At the moment it isn't feasible for my computer to mine, as it is a Streacom FC8 which can't physically fit GPUs. Additionally, with the transition to PoS, it isn't feasible to buy a mining rig, as it's unlikely to get a payback. What I want to know is whether my existing computer (as well as most modern desktop computers) would be able to join a validator pool with PoS?
