Spark is like the superhero of the DeFi world, swooping in to save the day!

With a rock-solid foundation and unbeatable security, Spark is centered around our buddy DAI and deployed on Ethereum. It's here to bring reliability to the DeFi universe.

It's got all the cool features for supply and borrow of ETH, stETH, DAI, and sDAI. Talk about versatility, right? (◡`◡-)◡

Psst! Check out Spark's landing page!

So, let's get to the juicy details. Spark Protocol's first version, Spark Lend, is basically a lending marketplace tailor-made for all you crypto lovers, with a special focus on DAI. You can go wild and interact directly with Spark's front-end, connecting Maker's liquidity to this complete DeFi solution. (◡◡)

Now, hold on to your seats because this is the part where things get interesting. Through Spark Lend, you can borrow DAI at a jaw-dropping initial annual rate of just 1.11% thanks to the direct injection of liquidity from our pals at Maker.

And guess what? The rates won't go up with utilization, no matter how big or small you are! It's like the DeFi fairy godmother granting wishes without asking for anything in return.

But wait, there's more! Spark introduces the first use of sDAI, the fancy tokenized version of DAI deposited in the DSR. It's like having a smart, money-making friend that automatically connects you to some sweet yield-bearing action.
