

The community has twice now risen up against whales to create its own outcomes using raw elections.

First, Cartan was displaced after some allege that unscrupulous activity from whale accounts attempted to vote up AIP-183.

Second, Degentraland didn't make SC after it was alleged that whales were backing him using unsavory tactics.

Voting in @Gerry @veratheape and @BoredApeG over @Degentraland's whale backing is a huge win for the raw election process.

But I hear more and more people in the BORED AIP coming up saying that we can't trust elections to give us the best people for working groups. This simply flies in the face of what we've just seen now... twice.

Having SC appoint 3 of WGv0 isn't in line with democratic elections, even with PH from FWB seeming to back the notion that important positions in Treasury and Operations can't be trusted to elections.

I think the results of AIP-183 and SC show they can.

Rework the part of the BORED AIP that lets SC pick 3 WGv0 Stewards. If it needs to be voted down for this to change, we vote it down and change it.
