

There are cases, where a contract have loops upon an array that grow with user input, causing contract fail due gas limit.

I see that through zero-knowledge techniques we might be able to process those offchain and submit the result with the proof.

Would be possible to ethereum implement this to make gas limit infinite?