

@MohamadHuman approached me with a problem where someone deposited 130 USDC into his account, which decreased his ROI.

As I found out, it was the account `dydx1yk724rm3ln4kuespnv2ue5l3ufzm2mzxp0v43g`

, which was funded through Avalanche `0x0be644361240e6071902da465a9712347c0ad002`

(a disposable account funded from OKX).

This is a serious bug in the ROI calculation for each account, especially for smaller leagues. Such cases could have happened across all seasons, potentially allowing for manipulation of one's position.

I briefly checked that there are many inter accounts transactions for those accounts in small leagues (silver and bronze).

Personally I don't have any motivation to dig deeper especially since stakeholders and validators don't have any plans to improve anything
