

Hey guys. A little over a week ago I tried to stake 0.15 Eth using Lido from my Ledger Wallet. After the first attempt I recieved an error message and there was no sign of the transaction having gone through. As such, I proceeded to try to stake the same 0.15 Eth again as there was an error the first time. The second time I recieved the same error. I closed the app and reopened it to try a final time, only to receive the same error. At that point I went to bed assuming I still had all my Eth. Now after checking back in today, I can see that 0.45 of my Eth is being staked, but I was charged ~0.006 Eth per transaction (3x) even though I was told there was an error. I am happy to continue staking 0.45 Eth, but I would really appreciate being reimbursed the 0.012 Eth for the two additional transations that took place. If not, I've basically lost any rewards from staking this amount for almost a year... Please help dev team!