

The data for the next round is released at 6pm UTC on Saturday each week, and you have until 2:30pm UTC on Monday to make your submission. So we get about a 2-day window to make our submission. Importantly the training data rarely changes, so you don't have to build a new model each week. Just build a model using the training data and you can reuse that model to make predictions each week.