

As much as I try to read about the two, I don't understand how they're different from one another. Aren't they both protocols for creating subchains or para-chains which are secured by an oversight chain?

How do the two differ and what does each offer?