

Secret Network has very good organic growth strategy which is fine and its one thing i am proud of. For example the grants, are a good idea to help develop the network. However, the crypto space has a lot of retail investors that are attracted to networks where they see an opportunity to invest in ICOs. For example IDO investment on Bianance chain is on the high and ICOs made ethereum more popular in 2017. If secret network offered an isco (initial secret coin offering) platform with privacy features it could boost awareness of the platform. Any thoughts on this?
