

When can we expect the signals feature to become publicly available on Numerai's platform, allowing users to seamlessly integrate their API keys and automate their trading? Additionally, as a US-based company, Numerai may be subject to regulatory requirements in offering such a feature. Could you please provide clarification on any regulatory considerations that need to be addressed before this feature can be made available to the public?