

A couple of potential 'extreme situations' from me (Joakim here - I have like 3 forum accounts and I don't know how to merge them).

- The value of any cryptocurrency assumes governments won't ban the use of them. If they do, the value of all crypto would approach 0. Maybe not a 'probable' scenario, but it's at least 'possible' but maybe this probability is already discounted in the value of crypto in general?
- Since NMRs can only be burnt, assuming NMRs will continue to be used for staking, that means that at some point in the future there will be 0 NMR. As the supply of NMR approaches 0, does that mean the value of NMR approaches infinity?