

Good question, i would also love to know the answer. I tend to think it is additional data rather than increasing dimensionality of dimensionality reduction/obfuscation as the improvement is quite significant. You can try to do pca to reduce the new features to 310 features and i think the result will still be better than the old model.