

Hey everyone,

I am working on project. I have read through some of the guidelines but I am still wondering about a few things regarding the application process.

What are some key factors that make an application stand out to the grant committee? Is there a particular structure or approach that has worked well for others? I have seen projects succeed with clear use cases and strong community support but are there any common mistakes or pitfalls I should watch out for while drafting my proposal??

Also i have check this article and resorse <https://forum.arbitrum.foundation/t/clarified-process-for-non-council-recommended-applications-to-move-to-snapshottableau> witch is good for me

Also, if anyone has worked on grant proposals before, I want to hear your experiences.

Thank you