

I think implementing order types such as limit and stop orders would encourage users of CEX's to start using Uniswap. This would in turn increase volume and overall be good for the platform as a whole.

As an example, Matcha.xyz offers limit orders right now for specific pairs.

What do you guys think? Would implementing limit orders help or hurt Uniswap, and why?