

Welcome to the forum.

How then it's possible to create good quality model without applying Time Series algos?

There are sets of machine learning problems that don't require time series modeling. You might want to check out the example model to see for yourself how it works: https://github.com/numeraai/example-scripts/blob/master/example_model.ipynb