

For transparency, etc etc nothing should ever be totally wiped from the record. (Maybe you don't want to see your old model, but I might as part of looking at historical data. All models every round are part of the whole context of that round.) So what you should be asking for is simply a way to hide one of your own models from display on your own models page (assuming you aren't submitting anything on that slot anymore). One thing you can do now is change the model name, so if that makes it less annoying. Or you know...submit something with it...establish a new history.
