

Quick question on the strict access list -

While looking up at the geth implementation, I noticed that the EVM too has an accessList parameter for their transactions.

How is this different to that?