

Jon,

I know we haven't always seen eye-to-eye on things, but something like this transcends anything that might occur in the less significant portions of life. Dude, my heart is broken right now for you. I, unfortunately know where you're at, and I know there is nothing I can say that eases any of this. Please know I'm thinking about you, and you're in my prayers. All we can do now is fight forward. It's been a hell of a journey and this wouldn't have been the same without you. All my best brother, take care.

John
