

Harmony has begun the recovery process and it appears AAVE and the many people with locked or frozen assets in the Harmony blockchain are being left out of the process.

Harmony Horizon bridge exploit. Consequences to Aave V3 Harmony[Governance

]/(c/governance/4)

disclaimer: The following post is reflecting my personal opinion as an individual & Aave token holder and is not representative of the Aave companies in any form. To be honest, my initial opinion was "Harmony fucked up and failed to protect their users, If governance agrees we should take the punch & loss, pay back users in stables and keep the harmony Aave market frozen and I'll vote accordingly" but I have to voice my concerns that "expectation of bailout" is not really something I'm comfort...

docs.google.com

[

](<https://docs.google.com/document/d/1IWG46yoSa0xcZB6tl1MMIWUmRyhy9dCpOzHY929mvw/edit?usp=drivesdk>)

Ecosystem Liquidity Solution - Proposal v1.

Note: this is a working proposal and can be modified at any time. Introduction In response to the Horizon bridge incident, a group of community members formed to discuss creative solutions. During this process, the discussion expanded to include...

<https://snapshot.org/#/hashme.eth/proposal/0xa42068299c4a50901160fc12a1d00785aef9a188613792d49ce8a80e0ae72d10>

Unless there is communication or work going on behind the scenes that I am unaware of.

Can we get a vote to either participate in the recovery one process or find a different method to fix the issues with AAVE on Harmony?