

The #RealYield

narrative is here to stay and investors are looking to put their money in tokens that could generate yield not through token inflation but another form of currencies such as $USDC or $ETH. So I propose that devs make $AAVE generate some form of #RealYield and distribute it to the stakers, in order to make the token a lucrative investment.