

I'm looking to supply a large sum of capital to lend on the platform. However I'm concerned with potential security risks from smart contract failures. Although AAVE has never had any security breach that I'm aware of, I'm wondering If my funds were stolen- (and not from an issue from my side but with the protocol), will I be compensated? Would it also help splitting up the money on different chains on AAVE?

Assuming it would be another vector to attack by a bad actor. Thanks for any answers!
