

If I wanted to work on implementing verifier contracts for Noir circuits in a different language, are there any resources you could point me to to get started?

I'm working a lot lately with the Sway programming language, and am wondering how feasible it would be to implement verifier contracts in Sway.