

Hi All,

I wanted to check on how the community feels about updating uniswap v3.0 smart contract code so that pools can accept rebase tokens (e.g, stEth, Ampl), which it cannot currently do.

Don't want to make this a discussion on whether it is feasible or not (I am posting this because I think I have a feasible approach). Would love to focus this discussion on whether this would be of interest to the community to have, and if so, I could submit a more specific proposal as a temperature check.

Best, Alan.