I think this drop should be proportionate to the time you first staked your ETH in the Lido UI, as well as how long you staked it – not to mention how much you staked at the time. Rewarding the early adopters that took the initial risks and pave the way for the later majority should absolutely be a priority here.