hi, what architectures would work for this version of the problem?