This is just a difference between the time it was announced vs the implementation by the time I finished testing and launched, you're not missing anything