I have done some experiments with what I call head-to-head models (pairwise comparisons) and while it worked, so far I haven't gotten it to work quite as well as…not doing that. I do use decision trees, but none of the typical boosting libraries so they may implement it in a more clever way than I do, and I do have a few ideas for next time I try it.