Hi,

Can you please implement the ability to run a "normal node" which is not a block producer during the testnet and which does not require any stake to run during the testnet. These nodes should not be eligible for genesis game/competition

It will create a more realistic testnet … otherwise everyone is a block producer and we are not testing the testnet to its full extent before launch.

the way block producing nodes interact with non block producing nodes is critical…