Hi dYdX Community,

We've recently updated our community guidelines and introduced new forum features, following valuable suggestions from you all. These updates aim to enhance our forum's safety and user experience.

Key updates include:

Revised Community Guidelines:

We've integrated points from our previous discussion on forum safety and value.

Hi dYdX Community, I want to address some important matters and share essential safety tips with you. Support Requests and Technical Issues: We've observed an increase in support-related threads here. Please note that such queries are beyond the scope of this governance forum. Our mission is to drive governance and development within the dYdX ecosystem. For support on the dYdX Chain, use our official helpdesks:

dYdX Chain (v4) Helpdesk: Help Center dYdX Exchange (v3) Help Center: dYdX Help C…

This includes guidance on where to seek product support, as product-related support queries fall outside the forum's scope.

Check out the updated guidelines here.

Enhanced User Experience:

The forum now sports a new layout with dYdX's font, integrations for reactions and GIFs, a table of contents for topics, and verified badges for key participants and staff to combat impersonation.

Improved Content Quality:

We've implemented tighter restrictions for Trust Level 0 users to reduce spam and low-value content. Advancement to Trust Level 1 is now required for posting.

We're excited for you to experience these changes and would love to hear your feedback and suggestions.

Thanks for being part of this journey.

Cheers,

Stan
